

Huggle Night Nappy

Contributed by Gabrielle Edwards

Huggle Night Nappy

Huggle Night-Time Nappy Type of Nappy Fitted nappy with pocket-style opening to facilitate faster drying time Sizes

* Newborn (up to 5.5kg)

* Small (4.5 to 9kg) Features

* Constructed of many layers of terry towelling - a body of two layers of thick Egyptian terry towelling with fold out booster made from an extra two layers that can be doubled over, or tri folded to add an extra four or six layers through the wetzone.

* Micro-fleece inner lining for use as a stay-dry liner to draw wetness away from bub's skin and for ease of cleaning

* Can be purchased with or without fasteners such as Aplix or Snaps

* Fold-out extra length of towelling for extra absorbency

* Machine-dyed natural material

* Available in a range of soft and bright colours Absorbency Recommended for night-time use or heavy wetters
Booster? Comes with built-in, fold-out booster (extra length of material) Cover Will need a cover Value-for-Money A good thick and thirsty night nappy - medium value as you still need to use a cover. Nappy Review says... The supplier says on their website: "Slow drying because it is so thirsty, and bulky too, but serves its purpose exceptionally well."
Other Mums say...

Sherree says..."This nappy is a gorgeous and thick one for night time use. It's made from many layers of towelling and has a microfibre fleece lining so there's no need to worry about the terry toweling going stiff on the line. It does need a snappy or pins to do it up. It has a fold out extra length of toweling so effectively it is like a pocket nappy.

It is a little too bulky for daytime use but overnight it is fine, it's suitable for very heavy wetters. It does require a cover.

The fleece is against bub's skin and it's hand dyed with natural material so it won't affect the most sensitive skin.

The recommended retail price is $27.50 which I think is very reasonable for what you get." Price $27.50 Where to Buy